Attendance Increases At Vacation Bible School Classes

The Daily Vacation Bible School at the Church of the Brethren in Arrowwood has been progressing with increasing interest and attendance. The teachers are all working very earnestly to make it a success. There were 86 boys and girls present on Tuesday. The School will close on Friday of this week. The closing program of this Bible School will be given in the church on Sunday night, service beginning at 8 o'clock. We extend a hearty invitation to every person in the community to attend this program. It will be of special interest to the parents and friends of the children who have been in attendance at the sessions during the past two weeks. To a very large extent it will consist of a summary or review of the work done during the Bible School. The pastor intends to give a short address.

Dance Hall Hours

Restrictions placed on dance hall hours under act early in the year, which public entertainments were required to close at 1 o'clock on week nights, have been lifted by a new order in council, which leaves the hours open to any time desired. It is still required, however, that dance halls shall be closed from midnight on Saturday to 8 a.m. on Monday.

Buffalo Hill News

The Wyatt boys returned from Banff last Saturday and report having spent a very enjoyable time there, but at Waterton Lakes the rain was too heavy so they decided to go home. They brought a nice mess of trout with them.

The crops are ripening quickly and will be ready for the binder in a week or ten days, but for the combine the grain will have to harden more. Some fields are quite green yet.

We noticed Bert Starling taking out some chairs, and some time ago it was a sewing machine. It seems that the household furnishings are being built up by degrees — well here's hoping for the best.

The road from Lyle's corner to McInenly's farm, at the Twin Bridges has been greatly improved. All that is needed now is a good rainfall to settle the grade, then there would be a good road leading to Arrowwood from the south.

Our Community Swimming Pool

We have been ducking and diving all over the country for eight years, looking for a decent hole to swim in. Now in less than a week, thanks to a number of our young men and boys we have within two miles of home, a real Pool.

Again we must take our hats off to the Ladies as they were really the first to realize that it was possible to get this most beneficial asset, close to home and thus commenced the movement by stirring up the somewhat slow moving Male Sex.

We trust the Ladies will not get so puffed up over this that they will make it uncomfortable for their men folk to stick around home. The writer happens to realize that there will be more than one (I knew this could be done, and we should have done it years ago) but Ladies please go easy.

We wish to tender special thanks to the following, without whose aid, it would have been practically impossible to carry out this project.

Mr. Gooderham, who kindly gave us permission to use the location. Mr. Tom Robinson, who kindly surveyed the plot and is supplying the water. Mr. M. H. Vard and Mr. G. Jones, who have each given us a building for dressing rooms. All those who gave us the use of their teams and equipment; and especially all the boys who so freely gave their time and work in building up the dam. This was a hard, hot job, and we feel they are to be commended for the real good job they have left. And last but not least those who kindly gave their trucks and time hauling sand, and those who subscribed cash donations for incidental expenses.—Contributed.

Brethren Young People's Contest Won by the Reds

During April, May and June the Young People's class of the Church of the Brethren engaged in a contest. The two fold purpose of this contest was to increase the interest in the Sunday School and the attendance in the class. Donald Vancil captained the "Blues" and Donald Bowman the "Reds". Quite a lot of enthusiasm was generated and to quite an extent the purposes of the contest was realized.

Some of the points entering into the contest were attendance, punctuality, new members, lesson studied, home work perfect attendance of the entire group, and largest offering. Mrs. Roscoe Shatto is the teacher who injects enthusiasm and interest into every activity of the class and especially was this true during the contest.

The "Reds" were the winners. On last Sunday the "Blues" fulfilled their obligation by planning and carrying out a picnic at the river. The entire class, accompanied by a few guests went from the morning church services to the picnic grounds. A bonafide repast was served, climaxed by ice cream and cake. During the afternoon prizes were awarded to the three who accumulated the largest number of points. Miss Edna Beagle, Miss Rosemary Lord, and Miss Mildred Kauffman were the recipients of these beautiful mottoes given by Mrs. Shatto, the teacher.

After the evening church service the group again went to the river where a fine evening was spent around the camp fire roasting winners, having music and a general good time. All seemed to feel that the entire day had been profitably spent, the spiritual, social and physical phases of life each having having had a fair share in the day's plans.

THE Life Means Change.

Occasionally the writer of this column feels the urge to pass on to the readers of it some thought, or idea, or even complete article he has come across in his own reading, in surrendering to that urge this week, we pass on an article appearing in a little United States magazine which does not go into general circulation, which has no subscription list, but which is distributed free to a selected list of people in all parts of the world. That article follows:

To prepare for life in a world that is continually changing, that is a very small part of a universe in which nothing is or ever will be static even for the space of one brief second, humanity has been taught, from the earliest dawn of reason, to strive for permanence, security, safety, ease, something which we may accept as settled. Thus we find ourselves mentally, and spiritually unprepared to meet the apparently sudden, unexpected changes which follow inevitably upon some wide-spread emergency. Instead of schooling ourselves to meet emergencies in their varied and unpredictable phases, we have preferred to be lulled or to lull ourselves into a sense of false security, to surround ourselves with an atmosphere of spiritual anesthesia. Instead of taking life as a tremendous adventure—and it is this or nothing!—we delude ourselves into the belief that we have made of it something restfully secure, that we have created, in some measure at least, a lasting order of things. And we comfort the added absurdity of telling our children that these things are so, when our whole experience, the experience of all humanity proclaims them to be utterly false.

How different would be our reactions to the experiences of the last three uncomprehendingly trying years had we been free from the traditional fear of change. And why should we fear change when it is the most certain thing that life brings us? It is the very essence of life; the vital germ of growth, the stimulus to the creative movement, the force that impels us along the road of progress. Change gives life its vitality; lends it sparkle and variety and the lure of glorious adventure; makes it worth living to those who have learned the most precious, most helpful of its secrets. Acceptance of this fact is the one royal way to spiritual freedom, and in spiritual freedom lies the only assurance of safety, of permanence, of safety, of ease to be found in all the range of created things. For only when the spirit is free—free from delusions and contradictions and self-interest and fears and traditions and narrow prejudices and selfishness—free to venture where it will and when it will, is it prepared to meet, with profit and to the price, the ever unexpected possibilities and adventures of life. The accumulation of these spiritual poisons is the one sure laying-up of treasure where neither moth nor rust can corrupt, and where thieves cannot break through and steal. It is the one treasure not subject, except in enhancement, to the vicissitudes of life.

The chief thing in living is life itself. The chief purpose to life should be to live it abundantly, joyously, zestfully; to savor each of its constantly varying phases; to get all we can out of it and to put all we can into it. We should not fear to take any part of it. We should prepare ourselves to meet the realities of life, frankly admit them as realities, and reap the fullest practical advantages from them. And if we do this we shall come to the inescapable conclusion that the genuinely desirable advantages of life have little if anything to do with material things.

If we would enjoy life to the full, we must change our traditional attitude toward it. Instead of building upon the illusion of permanence, we must build upon the certainty of change—constant change both within ourselves and in all other created things; physical, mental and spiritual change. For without change life could not exist. To imagine any possible permanence in life, anything static, anything unchanging even for the smallest period of our consciousness of time, would be to imagine our most fearful and hopeless conception of death. And life knows no death, only change, and continuing life.

There is no thought in anything I have said here that we should not strive intelligently and courageously for some measure of stability, some temporary standard of thought and action, in our material affairs; but that in our thinking, our planning and our striving we never should for a moment lose sight of the realities of life, and that neither permanence nor absolute security is one of them. Our ideas of security, of any settled order of things should be relative. They should be held loosely and subject to the certainty of change. In other words, we should prepare ourselves for change as for the one sure thing which life offers us. Our accumulations of things material should be secondary to our accumulations of things spiritual. The insecurity of material accumulations should make us value more highly the security of spiritual accumulations—our experiences, our memories, our generous and friendly impulses, our unselfish and totemic motives, our whole attitude toward our fellows, our confidence in the eternal beneficence of life, our love of what is good, our desire for continuing human betterment, in short, all that our experience has taught us is most to be desired.

Let us then accept life frankly as a glorious adventure, and face it at all times cheerfully and bravely. Let us banish fear, fear of present insecurity, fear to venture because of uncertainty, above all else, fear of change. Let us be constantly prepared for change, ready to take advantage of it rather than to have it take advantage of us. Let us live our lives to the full and go forward cheerfully, bravely, confidently, and with light and hopeful hearts.

Summer Complaint Plays Havoc With the Bowels

Few people escape an attack of summer complaint. It may be slight or it may be severe, but both the young and the old are liable to it during the summer months. You cannot tell when it will come or how it is going to end. Let it run for a day or two and see how weak and prostrate it will leave you.

On the first sign of an attack of any looseness of the bowels take a few doses of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Blackberry and see how quickly it will be relieved.

Botanists Are Interested

Awailing News Regarding Discovery of Musk Plants in Texas

Botanists everywhere are awaiting eagerly news concerning the musk plants with the long lost odor on Texas Island, B.C.

In connection with the reported discovery by Stanley Boys on Texas Island, on the British Columbia Coast, of a musk plant carrying the distinctive odor common over twenty years ago but since unknown, Dr. Arthur W. Hill, director of the Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew, England, is keenly interested.

Dr. Hill has written to Frank Kermode, of the Provincial museum of natural history, Victoria, saying the discovery, if it can be substantiated, is of every great scientific interest. He asks that if possible seed or plants with a strong musk scent may be forwarded to him at Kew, and gives instructions for their safe packing for the journey and outlines special precautions to be taken in forwarding them.

The musk of the odor well remembered by most persons of English upbringing—it was common as a pot-plant for houses in England a quarter of a century ago and is said to have been taken to England originally from British Columbia by the famous Douglas whose name is perpetuated in our Douglas fir.

It is given as having originated on the American continent by authorities. It had been commercially used in perfume manufacture years ago and there are commercial possibilities about its rediscovery in British Columbia, apart from world-wide scientific interest.

Home For Orphan Boys

Adopted By Wealthy Couple Whose Dead Son He Resembles

The home of a wealthy silk dyer and his wife has been transformed into a home for a 13-year-old orphan boy from Omaha, Neb., it was seemed like a modern version of the old story of Cinderella and the prince.

The boy was Peter Christoph, and inmate of Father Philip's orphan home near Omaha. The mother of the lad, an orphan since early childhood, was the medium through which he has become just like a son to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Strenge, who live at Paterson, N.J.

The mother of Strenge saw the picture of Peter and was struck by the resemblance of his son, Henry, who was drowned in Green Pond, N.J., a little over a year ago. As a result, arrangements were made to bring Peter in the Strenge household to take the place of the dead boy.

Farming On Small Scale

Has Proved Best During These Times

Large-scale farming it is worth noting, is no longer being advanced as a cure-all for agricultural ills. It is not so many months since farmers were being told that agricultural salvation could only be attained by mass production on very large farms, and fears were being expressed that small farmers would lose their individuality and become something approaching serfs. But the depression has changed all that, as it has changed many other things. The small farmer is managing to get along in some way or other, but the large scale farmers have gone broke or shut up shop.—Brookville Recorder and Times.

More Aeroplane Passengers Located Lost Gallons

Pirate Lost Within Grasp of An English Adventurer

Treasure buried long ago by pirates who had stolen it in raids on merchantmen is believed to be within the grasp of an expedition led by Stratford D. Jolly, an English adventurer, who, with his party, set out from British more than a year ago in a converted steam trawler. At last, Jolly believes the treasure is within his grasp. He has returned to England for a short time, but will continue the search in another vessel the trawler having been sold.

One of their party, Frank Cooper, who gave up a post in the government engineering industry in New York to join the expedition as gold diver, was able to locate at Trinidad a number of sunken Spanish galleons, which were scuttled in 1797 to avoid capture by the British fleet, according to Jolly's story.

Finding the galleons, he said, was as easy as could be for Cooper, who used for the purpose only a gramophone spring. "That Cooper's work was successful we know," said Mr. Jolly, "because we took soundings and were able to trace the actual shape of the sunken ships. They are down in only seven fathoms of water—a depth easy for divers to work in—and, above all, they are in a very sheltered part."

Wanted To Look Around Scaffolding Headed "Big Wave"

Prince George climbed 180-foot scaffolding headed "Big Wave" to look around the scaffolding surrounding Ben's tower at the House of Commons. No one looking on knew who the "human fly" was. To them it was simply a young man in a grey suit.

The prince had expressed a desire to climb up the ladders from platform to platform until he reached Big Ben. He then gave a good look around. Accompanied by two of the men engaged on the scaffolding work, he reached the highest point. After a few minutes he climbed over a parapet leading to the gallery where the bells that chime the quarters are installed. The prince ascended by means of a long spiral staircase inside the tower.

"Climbing the ladders to such a height is not an easy job for one not accustomed to the work," an official told a reporter. "But the prince got up very quickly, and showed fine nerve. He told us that he thoroughly enjoyed the experience." During the 180 feet ascent the prince had to climb up steep ladders from which, when glancing down, he could see nothing between himself and the ground. In many places the scaffolding upon which he had to walk consisted only of a couple of planks.

Russia's New Fast Train With a new idea for locomotives, a. S. Valdiva, an official engineer, has Russian transport commissariat, has invented an exceedingly fast railway engine which is called an "aerodynamic." The prefix "aerodynamic" is misleading, because the locomotive does not fly, but the term is intended to describe the engine as of the aeroplane type, with propellers. It is stated that the train is stable at a speed of more than 150 miles an hour.

Ceylon's First Woman Lawyer

Nineteen Year Old Girl Was Brilliant Scholar In London

Among the first to pass the examination for call to the English Bar is Miss Avaria Mehta, of Colombo, Ceylon.

Miss Mehta is only 19 years old, a Miss Parsee girl from Ceylon, whose appearance would give the impression that she was a school days were hardly over yet. She was a brilliant scholar at the Maria Grey Training College, London, England, and after matriculation she read for the Bar in Lincoln's Inn.

I saw her at her home in Hampstead, where she is living with her mother—written in an Evening News representative. She was wearing a naive dress of blue and gold.

"I shall be the first woman barrister in Ceylon," she said. "There are, of course, a number of women lawyers in India, but up to now there have been none in my own country."

"I am eager to begin work at the Bar in Ceylon, but I have to wait some time yet before I can do that. I cannot be called until I am 21, and I have to eat my dinner for three more terms. I may go to India first and practice there for a time before going to Colombo."

Miss Mehta said there was no question of the law in which she took special interest and her practice would be a general one. Her father is an assistant superintendent at Colombo, and one of the few Parsees in Ceylon. "There are only 200 there," she said, "but there are 100,000 in India."

Matter Being Considered

Train Ferry May Be Inaugurated Between England and Sweden

A train ferry between Sweden and Britain may be inaugurated, if present plans materialize. A minimum capital of one-half million kroner already has been subscribed, due to the confidence with which the project is regarded in Britain.

Drawings for the ferry have been made and the cost is estimated to cost $2,000,000 kroner and have room for 24 refrigerators cars, 10 freight cars and 430 first-class passengers. The Swedish terminal will be Vargberg.

It has been suggested that during the summer months the ferry make an intermediate stop at Copenhagen.

Hardly Necessary

With the nations feeling the way they do about each other, what need is there for trains that go 110 miles an hour and airplanes that go 250 miles an hour? It must be that they are perfecting communications in order to get away from each other as fast as they can.

The production of pallates in Canada in 1932 amounted to 36,416,000 ewt, the smallest yield recorded since 1916.

WAGIN' TUNG

Vol. 2, No. 50 Arrowwood, Aug. 3, 1933 Items for That

A Splendid Spirit

We now refer especially to the young men, and the older ones too, who so generously did the hard work in the construction for the swimming pool. The writer happened on the scene when they were digging the ditch for the inlet from the main canal and we opine that no wop ever made lazier leaves with a No. 2 than these splendid young men did. Hats off to the young men of our community.

With harvest progressing so rapidly, threshing will soon be on. For your threshing needs we have a 24-42 all steel separator, thoroughly reconditioned and in good shape. If you should need any threshing equipment this fall, come in and see us. We shall be glad at any time to talk the matter over with you.

If you want a good machine oil for your binder we can supply you with Motorene at 66c per gallon if you bring your own container. For your motor we still maintain that our Autolene oil will be the cheapest in the end. We carry it in a grade and weight for every purpose.

While we are exceedingly busy these days we are always glad to haul anything, anywhere, anytime.

The Scots man who was asked to tell the strangest thing he found in America, emphatically replied:

"That American cocktail. They put whisky in to make it strong, water to make it weak; gin to make it hot, ice to make it cold; vinegar to make it sour, sugar to make it sweet—then they lift it high and say, 'Hooray to you!' and they drink it themselves."
